Many Voters live in Lop-sided Precincts in which the winning party won over 50% of the votes

States ordered by the total % of voters who live in lop-sided precincts (50%+ margin)

- Louisiana
- Alabama
- Mississippi
- Wyoming
- Tennessee
- Oklahoma
- W. Virginia
- Georgia
- Arkansas
- Kentucky
- Missouri
- Texas
- Idaho
- Maryland
- New York
- California
- Illinois
- N. Dakota
- Nebraska
- S. Carolina
- Indiana
- Montana
- N. Carolina
- Ohio
- Pennsylvania
- New Mexico
- Virginia
- Kansas
- Alaska
- S. Dakota
- Utah
- Massachusetts
- Oregon
- Washington
- New Jersey
- Colorado
- Florida
- Vermont
- Minnesota
- Delaware
- Michigan
- Arizona
- Rhode Island
- Wisconsin
- Connecticut
- Nevada
- Maine
- Hawaii
- New Hampshire
- Iowa

Most Republican states had a high proportion of voters living in lop-sided precincts.

Four of the Democratic states had over 30% voters residing in lop-sided precincts.

These five states had roughly equal number of voters living in lop-sided states for each party.

By contrast, most states won by Democrats had few lop-sided precincts although these tended to be Democratic precincts.

Kaiser Fung / Junkcharts